The client's necessary contact information (name, telephone number, email) is collected in order to start the steering service. The service provider forwards information regarding the progress of the client's service to Helsinki Employment Services (information on the result of the analysis period, employment, interruption and end of the service). The final assessment of the analysis period includes an evaluation of the client's professional skills and suitability for work in the respective industries. The health-related entries about the client's work and functional ability apply only to the assessment of information that relates to the promotion of and obstacles to employment. Required personal data: Name, telephone number, street address, email address, personal identity number. The final assessment at the end of the analysis period is a prerequisite for providing personal coaching to promote the client's employment. The final assessment is submitted to the client's specialist for further guidance if they do not continue in the service provider's personal coaching. We process personal data according to the EU's General Data Protection Regulation (2016/679). More information about the processing of personal data: hel.fi/tietosuojaselosteet
